Ideas for a Romantic San Francisco Visit

By Betsy Malloy

San Francisco loves to tout its reputation as one of the most romantic cities, a place where everyone leaves their heart, finds new love or rekindles an old flame. If you're planning a romantic getaway in San Francisco, here are some great ideas for romantic San Francisco activities.

Romantic Spots to Pop the Question

If you're looking for a special spot to ask the love of your life to become your life partner, these are some of the best ones we can find. They're also nice, romantic spots, even if you aren't asking any important questions.

- Swankiest Spot in Town: If you're looking for an elegant setting, try the JCB Tasting Lounge at the Ritz-Carlton. Order a glass of (love potion) No. 9 sparkling wine to start. Enlist their helpful staff to stage the event. Finally, celebrate the acceptance with a glass of No. 22 pinot noir, a twice-lucky number that commemorates owner Jean Charles Boisset's first kiss.
