

Things to do in San Francisco at Night

A Guide to San Francisco After Dark

By Betsy Malloy

San Francisco Chinatown at Night. ©2014 Betsy Malloy Photography. Used by Permission.

Like any big city, San Francisco has its share of typical evening fare: theatre and performing arts, fine dining and nightclubs, but it's often difficult to find things to do if you don't enjoy those typical after-hours pursuits or are traveling with a family. We stayed up late in San Francisco to find a few things you might enjoy.

Things to Do in San Francisco After Dark

- Get Off to a Good Start: They close in the early evening, but why not kick your evening off at one of the swankiest places in town? The JCB Tasting Lounge at the Ritz-Carlton seats about a dozen people in an eye-popping setting of black and gold, animal prints and Baccarat crystal. Order a glass of passionate, provocative No. 9 sparkling wine or flirt over the flamboyant, sensual (and oh-so-yummy) No. 69 Pinot Noir.